Project Brief

Project Name

FluidLogic AgencyOS Integration

Owner

Juan Benitez and FluidLogic commercial leadership

Outcome

Create a working AgencyOS model for FluidLogic's elite athlete market transition: research-led positioning, evidence-bound claims, pilot design, sales enablement, content workflow, launch activation, and ongoing learning.

Why This Needs Teams

The project spans research, market segmentation, content strategy, sales enablement, evidence review, pilot design, and launch learning. A single assistant cannot safely carry the full workflow while preserving claims quality, message discipline, and handoff accountability.

Value Hypothesis

AgencyOS Teams can help FluidLogic preserve motorsports credibility, translate it into elite athlete language, reduce founder over-dependence on research and communications, and establish a repeatable workflow for market testing and learning.

Success Criteria

- Clear sequencing of agency work and handoffs
- Evidence-based positioning guardrails
- Ranked athlete market wedges
- Strong pilot design with measurable traction criteria
- Launch and learning loop that improves input over time
- No generic wellness dilution

Non-Goals

- Do not broaden into mass-market wellness hydration.
- Do not make unverified performance claims.
- Do not skip evidence review before launch.
- Do not treat motorsports credibility as a slogan without translation.
